Potentate of Shrine Visits S.L. Temple

All 17 Shriner's Hospitals for Crippled Children in North America are being readied to accommodate work in any field of surgery which will help children.

MARSHALL M. PORTER, imperial potentate of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine and a member of the Supreme Court of Alberta in Canada, said that Wednesday when he visited the Intermountain Unit, Shriners' Hospitals, 370 Virginia St. (1353 East).

EN ROUTE on a visitation tour of the 160 Shrine Temples representing more than 800,000 Shriners who support the children's hospitals, Mr. Porter toured the Salt Lake City institution with Lincoln C. Kelly, chairman of the hospital board of governors, and Glenn V.

Culp, potentate of El Kalah Shrine Temple.

"SOME 11 million dollars has been spent during the past six years refurbishing the hospitals which make beds available to 3,000 children of all colors and creeds annually whose parents or guardians are unable to pay for their child's hospitalization," Mr. Porter said.

"STRENGTH OF Shrine Temples and hospitals lies in the fact that they are administered on a local basis and hospitals are operated largely with volunteer assistance. Operating budgets of the hospitals for 1962 total six and one-half million dollars, with only eight cents of each dollar allocated for administrative costs," the visiting potentate added.

MR. PORTER was guest speaker for the annual meeting of El Kalah Shrine Temple at Masonic Temple, 650 E. South Temple, during the evening and conducted the installation of officers headed by J. Parker Coombs, Ogden, newly elected illustrious potentate of El Kalah Shrine.

OTHER NEW officers installed included: F. Sprague Adam, chief rabban; Elmer A. Vall, assistant rabban; Maurice P. Grefoz, high priest and prophet; Gail F. Bywater, orientale guide; Nels P. Mettome, treasurer; Julius S. Daniels, recorder, and H. R. Waldo, three-year trustee.

APPOINTIVE officers who took office at the same time included Richard W. Gano and C. Leander Prisk, ceremonial masters; David W. Reynolds, director; Evan E. Pike, marshal, and Pedigo, H. Voll and J. Frank Wright, guards.

J. Parker Coombs... Named as illustrious potentate.

Lincoln C. Kelly, left, chairman, Shriners' Hospital board; Marshall M. Porter, imperial potentate, and Potentate Glenn V. Culp, read animal book with Carlos, 6; Manuel, 9.

Liquor Board Requests Additional Funds

The Utah State Liquor Control Commission, beset by a budget less than its operating expenses, will ask the governor for additional funds during the next three months.

ALAN D. Johnson, State Liquor Control Commission chairman, said Wednesday the commission has adequate funds now but will require help before the end of the current quarter.

Gov. George D. Clyde has so far in the biennium beginning last July 1, given the commission advances totaling $18,325.

MR. JOHNSON said the commission would probably require to finish the present quarter more than the $11,000 advance granted to complete the last quarter.

The total estimated need of the commission, beyond that met by its 1961-63 appropriation, is about $385,000.

THE LEGISLATURE appropriates money to the commission from its revenues on sale of liquor.

Mr. Johnson's complaint is that with greater volume and greater profits returned to the state the commission has appropriated for 1961-63 less than it spent in the 1959-61 biennium.

State Grants State Unifies Data Paroles to On Child Welfare 5 at Prison

Special to The Tribune - POINT-OF-THE-MOUNTAIN - Utah State Board of Pardons Wednesday granted five paroles and five conditional termination dates, denied a release date to another Utah State Prison inmate and sent two others back to prison for violating their parole agreements.

All but three of the released will not become effective for one to three years.

RECEIVING PAROLES, effective dates and conditions being served are: Ronald E. Anderson, 24, Lake City, Jan. 19, 1965, serving five years to life for robbery and parole violation; Jerry Rutledge, 22, Independence, Mo., July 17, maximum five years for serving a fraudulent check; George R. Emmet, 31, Ploche, Nev., June 16, 1964, one to 10 years for grand larceny and five years to life for robbery and parole violation; Larry Jack, 22, Fort Duchesne, July 17, one to 10 years for fictitious check, and Ray Westmoreland, 34, Tremonton, June 19, maximum of five years for issuing an insufficient funds check.

GRANTED CONDITIONAL termination of sentence were: Robert Dunn, 32, Dexter, Iowa, Jan. 19, 1965, five years to life for robbery; David L. Vreeze, 22, Bell River, Calif., June 16, 1964, maximum five years for assault with a deadly weapon and five years to life for robbery; John N. Wait, 24, Los Angeles, Calif., June 18, 1963, life out-of-state hold is still in effect and if not Dec. 31, 1963; Edwin Lyle, 50, Lipton, Saskatchewan, Canada, Jan. 15, 1963, one to 20 years each for forgery and uttering and also for parole violation and Norman Richie, 15, Bellingham, Mass., Jan. 15, 1963, one to 20 years for burglary and also for parole violation.

DENIED A RELEASE date was Samuel Q. Healey, 34, American Fork, serving five years to life for assault with a deadly weapon, intent to commit murder. His next hearing will be in January, 1964.

Returned to prison for parole violation were David Lucero, 29, Grand Junction, Colo., whose next appearance before the board will be in January, 1965, and John E. Milan, 21, Roy, whose next appearance will be January, 1964.

against making too quick a professional judgment without assembling all the data as outlined in the new program.

Among other things that Mrs. Henderson told the group of social workers was that they should learn the interests and attitudes of other family members, their ethical and religious values, their interest in education for their child and their cultural influences.

THE SOCIAL worker should try to emphasize to parents that they must build "an early concept of working," something, Mrs. Henderson said, which is "a foreign concept" to many of the families who come to welfare agencies.

In evaluating the school background under the new procedures, the social worker should first find out the family's attitudes toward education, check with the teacher of the child involved and also study any achievement test results that are available.

CONCENTRATION in this area may help the social worker to formulate a solution to the problem of early school "dropouts" which are a growing problem in the state.

Mrs. Henderson said the question of family economics and health in relation to finances might also give the case worker an insight into the problems of a child.

Mrs. Crocker illustrated the aim of the new casework recording system by a comparison with the functions of a physician. They are three, she said—the information on symptoms, the diagnosis and the treatment of the problem.

ONCE THE treatment plan has been set, Mrs. Henderson emphasized, it is of the greatest importance for the social worker and the "client" to judge the suitability of the plan.

Later, another evaluation of the effectiveness of its operation should also be undertaken.

JOHN FARR Larson, director of children's services for the welfare department, said the new case record method, which already has the approval of the welfare commission, probably would be instituted by state agencies in about three weeks with any minor changes suggested after the meeting Wednesday.

Kearns Citizens Petition for Help on Safety

Citizens of Kearns Wednesday sought action from the Salt Lake County Commission to help solve what they termed "serious traffic conditions existing in the area."

A PETITION seeking commission investigation of the problem was presented by Ferrol Lambert, Kearns Town Council member.

He said the action was taken as a result of the death of a school crossing guard, Daniel L. Painter, 71, struck by a car last Dec. 14 at a crossing at 4220 W. 5415 South.

MR. LAMBERT told the commission that the school crossing guards were spending too much time directing traffic and not enough time watching for the safety of the children.
