

Ogden Bonds Losing in Early Count

OGDEN — With results from only five of the 10 polling places in Ogden's $1,025,000 bond election available late Friday, every issue of the proposed bonding program apparently failed by two to one and some cases almost three to one majorities.

City officials had held that all contemplated improvements would not be started at this time if a favorable vote were cast. The unmistakable majority against the bond proposals indicates there will be none of the work done except as present city income permits.

Total votes in the five schools used as polling places from which results were made known Friday night follow:

Storm sewer bonds, $230,000, yes, 178, no, 429; sanitary sewer bonds, $45,000, yes, 211, no, 412; airport construction, $300,000, yes, 159, no, 463; fire station bonds, $225,000, yes, 239, no, 392; park improvement bonds, $65,000, yes, 204, no, 422; city shop building bonds, $70,000, yes, 144, no, 475; paving bonds, yes, 170, no, 448.

The school polling places from which vote results had been received from widely scattered parts of the city, indicating little possibility that any of the separate proposals would be approved by the taxpaying voters.

Bountiful Woman Notes 84th Year

BOUNTIFUL—The 84th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Annie Pack Roberts of West Bountiful will be observed Saturday at her home in West Bountiful.

Born at West Bountiful Sept. 23, 1862, she is a daughter of John and Jane Walker Pack, who came west with Utah's first band of settlers in 1847.

One of the six charter members of the John Pack camp, D.U.P. at West Bountiful, which was named in honor of her father, Mrs. Roberts has written an interesting family history. In earlier years of her life she was prominent in L.D.S. church work, having served as a president of the West Bountiful Relief society, stake board Relief society member and counselor and ward teacher for 15 years. She also was a counselor in the ward Primary and a Sunday school instructor.

She was married to Thomas M. Roberts on Jan. 5, 1882, in the old Salt Lake endowment house. Mr. Roberts died Sept. 1, 1928. Sons and daughters of Mrs.

Richard Rawle Fry... Served four terms as Morgan mayor.

Ex-Mayor, 82, Succumbs in Morgan Home

MORGAN—Richard Rawle Fry, 82, prominent Morgan citizen and an active member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, died Friday at 8:30 a.m. at the family home in Morgan of causes incident to age.

He was born Jan. 20, 1864, in Morgan, a son of Richard and Ann Rawle Fry, early pioneers of the region. When he was 20 he served on an L.D.S. mission in Canada and England and later was ordained a high priest in 1887 by Heber J. Grant, late president of the L.D.S. church.

He married Emeline Eliza Toomer March 31, 1887, in Logan L.D.S. temple, the couple settling in Morgan. He served as second counselor in Morgan L.D.S. ward bishopric for 28 years, and later was sent on a mission to Tooele. Mr. Fry also filled several stake missionary calls between 1886 and 1899, later serving as president of the high priest's quorum.

Active in civic affairs, he was a member of the legislature in 1900-

American Fork Woman Dies; Joint Rites Set

AMERICAN FORK—Mrs. Fanny Dilworth Chipman, 83, one of American Fork's pioneers, died Thursday morning of causes incident to age.

Mrs. Chipman was born Nov. 17, 1863, in Herefordshire, England, a daughter of Joseph Dilworth Jr. and Fanny Davis Dilworth. She immigrated to the United States with her parents, arriving in Utah Oct. 31, 1869. Her mother died when she was 3 and she lived with Stephen Mott family until her marriage to Alphonso Chipman in the old Endowment house of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Salt Lake City, Feb. 28, 1884.

Mrs. Chipman had been an active worker in the L.D.S. American Fork Second ward Relief society.

She was the mother of 10 sons and daughters, of which eight are living.

She is survived by her husband, Alphonso Chipman, American Fork; four daughters, Mrs. Edna C. Firmage, Salt Lake City; Mrs. Sadie C. Whitman, Appleton, Wis.; Mrs. Marie C. Sweeney, Tulare, Cal.; and Mrs. Fay C. Mercer, Provo; four sons, Clyde Chipman and D. LuZell Chipman, Salt Lake City; James L. Chipman, Ripon, Wis.; Veness Chipman, Watertown, American Fork, and Ada Wootton, Provo. She had 20 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

A double service will be conducted Monday at 1:30 p.m. in the American Fork Second L.D.S. ward chapel for Mrs. Chipman and her son, Edlon M. Chipman, who died Monday in an American Fork hospital.

Friends may call at the family residence Sunday afternoon and Monday before noon.

01. Morgan county sheriff in 1896, and mayor of Morgan four terms during the period from 1895 to 1926. He also was a successful flour mill operator in Morgan.

Ex-Stockman, 80, Succumbs

TRIBUNE SPECIAL
CEDAR CITY—Richard Williams, 80, former Cedar City councilman and retired farmer and stock raiser, died at his home here early Friday of a heart attack.

He had been attending to his usual business Thursday, but suffered a severe heart attack at 1 a.m. Friday and died at 5:30 a.m.

A native of Wales, Mr. Williams had been a resident here since 1879, most of which time he was engaged in the farming and livestock business.

He was born at Aberdare, Wales, on Nov. 12, 1865, a son of Evan and Mary Jane Williams. The family migrated to Utah in 1879 as converts to the L.D.S. church. After living several months in Salt Lake valley the family moved to Cedar City, where Mr. Williams had resided since.

He worked for a time in the early iron and coal mining developments near here and was employed for some months at old Iron Town, where the first iron in the west was manufactured. Mr. Williams married Jesse Urie of Cedar City in the St. George L.D.S. temple on April 22, 1891, and shortly after entered the livestock business.

An active church worker, he had held various positions in his ward Sunday school and priesthood organizations.

He was one of the founders of the old Branch Normal school, now the Branch Agricultural college, and was among the men who went into the mountains in the dead of winter to bring out timber for the first college building.

He is survived by his widow, four sons and daughters, J. Urie and Richard William Jr., Cedar City; Mrs. Mary W. Thorley, Ogden; Mrs. Mayne W. Lombard, Salt Lake City, and a sister, Mrs. Jane W. Hunter, Cedar City.

Funeral services will be conducted in Fifth L.D.S. ward chapel Monday at 2 p.m. by William Snow, bishop. Burial will be in Cedar City cemetery.

50th Anniversary of School Coincides With Blind Meet

OGDEN — About 150 members of the Utah Assn. for the Blind are expected to meet in Ogden Saturday for the annual state convention of the organization and to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the blind school, according to Boyd E. Nelson, school superintendent.

The convention will open at 1:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the blind school with Hubert Cochran, Salt Lake City, president of the association, presiding.

Important legislation for the blind, U.A.B. reports and resolutions and election of officers will be important topics of discussion during the afternoon sessions.

George H. Lowe, Ogden attorney, president of the Utah Safety council, and president of the Utah Bar Assn., will be principal speaker at the banquet. Guests will include E. T. Saunders, Ogden city commissioner; Murray B. Allen, commissioner for adult blind of Utah, and Dr. E. Allen Bateman, state superintendent of public instruction.

Special guests during the convention will be the four remaining members of the original blind school class of 1896. They include John Braley, Richmond; Carl Lind, Salt Lake City; Albert H. Talmage, Provo, and Charles H. Layne, Ogden.

Assisting in details of the meeting are the state officers, including Mr. Cochran, Charles L. Gibson, Salt Lake City, vice president; Arnold Carlson, Ogden, second vice president, and Clifton Patterson, Salt Lake City, secretary-treasurer.
